

Pictorial Quiz

Maryam Raza

Case scenario

A 30-year-old man presented with complain of excruciating mouth ulcers that had persisted for a week. His medical history reveals episodes of headaches, for which he obtained 500 mg of paracetamol from a nearby drug dealer. Multiple mouth and lip ulcerations appeared in less than a day. On the upper and lower lips, there were numerous ulcerations accompanied by crustations. There were erythematous patches in the lower palpebral fissures and conjunctiva. Upon intraoral examination, the entire oral mucosa was sloughed off and there were numerous irregular ulcerations. Both the HSV serological test and Nikolsky's sign came out negative

What is your diagnosis?

Drug-induced Erythema multiforme

ziauddin University
Email: maryamraza246@gmail.com
Date of Submission: 20th May 2024
Date of Acceptance: 27th May 2024

Answer on Page